2024 EGPAF ILLUSTRATION COMPETITION

Inspiring Artists to Envision an AIDS-Free Generation

Our Mission and Vision

Founded through a mother's determination, the Elizabeth Glaser Pediatric AIDS Foundation (EGPAF) is driven to see a world where no other mother, child, or family is devastated by this disease. For more than 35 years, EGPAF has been a leader in meeting the urgent needs of pediatric HIV and AIDS in the world's most affected regions.

While we've seen significant progress in the fight to end HIV and AIDS – reducing new infections in children by more than 95% in the U.S. and by over 50% globally – there are alarming rates among adolescents and young adults, with nearly 10,000 youth becoming newly infected each week.

Each stage of life – from infancy to adulthood – brings new and different challenges, and EGPAF recognizes that ending this epidemic cannot be achieved in isolation. All family members must access prevention, treatment, and support services.

EGPAF will leverage our core expertise in service delivery, capacity building, research, and advocacy to address an evolving HIV and AIDS epidemic comprehensively. Through our presence on the ground and on the global stage, we'll advocate for the health and well-being of children as they transition into adulthood.

Now is the Time

What does an AIDS-free generation mean to you? The Elizabeth Glaser Pediatric AIDS Foundation invites established and emerging illustrators from around the globe to share their interpretation of what an AIDS-free generation means to you. With a panel of internationally renowned judges, the competition offers an opportunity to inspire artists to showcase their talents by illustrating their unique vision.
